"When we start the year 2020 with positivity and optimism of science and technology-driven development, then we take another step towards fulfilling our dream," Modi said.

The five-day event will see the participation of Nobel laureates Stefan Hell from Max Planck Institut Germany and Ada E Yonath, an expert in structural biology from Weizmann Institute of Science, Israel. Mysuru Zoo to get subway soon

- Subway to connect the ever-busy parking lot and Zoo entrance
- Vehicular movement in front of Zoo to be banned once works start

Mysuru, Jan. 3 (MTY&KS)- The frequent traffic jams amidst movement of pedestrians and tourists in front of Sri Chamarajendra Zoological Gardens (Mysuru Zoo) will be a thing of the past soon with the construction of a new subway to the Zoo from the parking lot.

The subway will be constructed at a cost of Rs. 1.9 crore to enable visitors and tourists to cross the Shalivahana Road (road in front of the Zoo) from the parking lot which witnesses heavy traffic throughout the day making it difficult for visitors and tourists to cross the road. The subway will connect the main entrance of the Zoo from parking lot and vice-versa.

The road connects Ittigegud, Lalitha Mahal Road, Siddarthanagar, T. Narasipur Road and other localities.

Works to commence in 10 days

Speaking to Star of Mysore, Zoo Executive Director Ajit M. Kulkarni said that though the subway works were to commence from Jan. 2, it has been delayed by about a week or 10 days due to tourist rush.

Sources said that the time schedule for the completion of the subway construction is six months as per the tender, but the construction will be completed by March or April.

Subway to be maintained by the Zoo

Mysuru City has two subways — on Sayyaji Rao Road and near Dasara Exhibition, which is maintained by the Mysuru City Corporation, but according to the Zoo Executive Director, the new subway will be maintained by the Zoo and added that paintings to educate people on Zoo and wildlife conservation will adorn the walls of the subway. He added that priority will be given to cleanliness.

Lively Lakes, Flourishing Forests

Information about the resources needed for sustaining all life forms, particularly plants, animals, birds, fishes and human beings namely air, water, minerals, sunlight is not only available to those who seek the information but can also be accessed effortlessly, thanks to advances in digital technology and electronic devices. A fraction of that mass of data and related details seems to be treated as knowledge before harnessing it for different purposes, particularly to ensure society's welfare. Air quality and stock of water needed for raising crops, quenching thirst, industry, washing, production of electricity, sustaining greenery and so on have come on centre-stage in public domain since the years of drought witnessed in the country. Administration's apathy, lack of awareness about the dos and don'ts of protecting the resources of water and air as well as fertile soil in the face of unabated increase of the country's headcount are not showing signs of changing for the better year after year.

Whether the country's past generations can be credited with the wisdom of avoiding indiscriminate consumption of the resources or not, they have thoughtfully left for later generations a rich legacy of water sources such as lakes and green cover for the land in the form of flourishing forests, an act of selfless generosity that doesn't seem to be valued by the present generation for its own detriment.

The country's currently stated population of nearly 1.5 billion (150 crore) seems to have clearly crossed the limits of per capita availability of water from all sources, land for raising crops and dwellings, profligacy in consuming life-supporting resources and last but not the least, generating garbage on a scale of making living spaces unhealthy, hurting all life forms. Reports in dailies with figures of a) Number of lakes that were lively during past years and vanished now, b) Status of ambient air in urban spaces, c) Area of forest cover according to norm of one-third of total geographical area of the country and the area of greenery lost due to encroachment are so routine that the reports don't seem to sink in the minds of people individually as well as collectively. Expecting the present generation to pro-actively change lifestyle of disdain is suspect.

The urban parents, barring exceptions, don't seem to be doing much in moulding the children to grow in sync with nature. Even the school teachers are mostly lost in the rigmarole of the humdrum education sector. The only hope for the future of the country's lakes and forests is that the children of today don't emulate their parents.

EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

Every year in this decade has broken a new record — the highest heat and the most extreme weather. But it is not just about weather. It is about how people in the world view their present and think about their future. We know that the young are restless — maybe more than in any past decade. In the richer world, young people are alarmed and insecure because they don't know how they will survive this increasingly warming world. But I think what worries the young the most is that they feel powerless to make the difference — what is intrinsic and essential in their lives is what is indicted as the problem. How will they change this? The young worry about this. As they must. — Sunita Narain in Business Standard

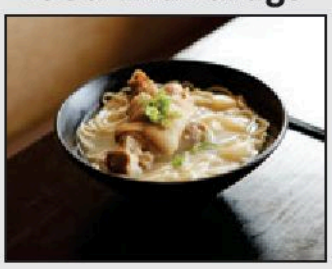
Russia's strongest child deadlifts 100 kg barbell

Moscow: Timofey Klevakin, a 11-year-old boy from rural Russia, instead of playing with children of his age is busy training in the gym and breaking weightlifting records.

Ever since he was five-year-old, Timofey was interested in weightlifting. Noticing his boy's interest, Arseny Klevakin started training him, despite his wife's protests over concerns that he was too young. At the age of six, during a regional weightlifting competition, Timofey managed to amaze attendants and judges by deadlifting a 55-kilogram barbell. He's been working hard ever since, and the now 11-year-old is getting ready to break the national deadlift record for his weight class by lifting a 105-kilogram barbell.

During this year's Asian Cup, which was held this summer in the city of Chelyabinsk, Timofey Klevakin managed to deadlift 100 kilograms. But what really attracted people's attention recently was his training regimen, which includes flipping tractor tires several times his weight, and pulling large tractors and cars with the help of elastic belts.

Restaurant owner busted for lacing food with drugs



Beijing: A restaurant owner in China's Guangxi Province was busted for mixing his noodles with opium to get patrons addicted and increase the chances of them coming back for more.

The restaurateur's dirty trick was uncovered by mistake, after someone who ate at his local in Sanjiang Dong Automonous County tested positive for morphine, the active component in opium, during a Police inspection.

The shocked man told investigators that the only thing he had ingested that he couldn't vouch for was a bowl of noodles at a local restaurant. That's how Police ended up making a surprise visit to the noodle shop in question, where they took a packet of snail powder which tested positive for morphine.

Set right server problem in Banks

Sir,

I am a customer of SBI Vivekanandanagar Branch, Mysuru. Today, as there was an urgent need of money for medical treatment I went to the bank at 10 am. But I couldn't get the required amount due to server problem.

I waited for one-and-a-half-hour till 11.30 am. Later I approached the manager and requested her help, explaining my problem. I asked her to kindly give me the required money and then update it later. But she refused to do so.

Further I approached the DGM Office near Krishnadhama in Saraswathipuram and even this approach of mine went in vain.

This issue of server problem was faced by me before also in the same branch. Apart from SBI, I had also faced server problem in Syndicate Bank, Saraswathipuram Branch too.

Therefore, I request the Bank authorities concerned to solve this issue as soon as possible instead of causing inconvenience to customers.

PM Modi: Fight Pakistan's atrocities on minorities, not CAA

Where should Hindu and other minorities subjected to religious persecution in Pakistan, Bangladesh and Afghanistan go?

Prime Minister Narendra Modi addressing the gathering at Tumakuru yesterday.

Tumakuru, Jan. 3 (UNI&Agencies) - Taking a dig at those protesting against the Citizenship Amendment Act (CAA), Prime Minister Narendra Modi yesterday said: "If they want to carry out agitations, let them carry out agitations against the oppressions of Pakistan against its minorities, including Dalits, Buddhists, Sikhs, Jains, for the past 70 years."

Modi was addressing a gathering at the Siddaganga Mutt after laying the foundation stone for a museum dedicated to Sri Shivakumara Swamiji, the late pontiff. "I dare the Congress and its allies who are the detractors of the Citizenship (Amendment) Act, to protest "Pakistan's atrocities on minorities for the past 70 years instead of rising against Parliament," he said.

Expose Pakistan's deeds

"Those protesting against the Parliament of India, I want to tell them that they need to expose Pakistan's deeds at the global level," Modi said. "You should have that guts...to protest and raise your voice against Pakistan's deeds for the past 70 years. If you want to shout slogans, shout against atrocities against minorities there. If you want to rally, do it in favour of Dalits and the downtrodden who have come from Pakistan. If you want to do dharna, do it against Pakistan's deeds," he said.

He said people fled from Pakistan to India to save their lives and the lives of their daughters. He told the protesters to raise their voice against Pakistan, which is carrying out "religious atrocities" against its minorities.

PM defends CAA

Strongly defending CAA, the Prime Minister asked what was wrong in giving shelter to the minorities including Hindus, Sikhs, Buddhists, Jains of Pakistan who were being subjected to atrocities because of their religion. With no other alternative, oppressed minorities there were forced to come to India seeking shelter and the Congress was not ready to say that what Pakistan was doing was not correct, he said.

It was some weeks ago Parliament passed CAA, Modi pointed out. "But the Congress, its allies and the ecosystem they've created are standing up against Parliament," Modi said. "The hate they have for us (BJP) is the same voice being heard against India's Parliament of late. These people have begun protesting the country's Parliament. They are protesting against Dalits, the oppressed and the downtrodden who have come from Pakistan seeking refuge," he said.

Why are the mouths locked up?

The Congress and its allies "don't speak against Pakistan, but are instead holding protests against those who took refuge in India to save their life, religion and the pride of their sisters and daughters," the PM charged. "They don't have time to speak against Pakistan over atrocities against minorities. Why is their mouth locked up?"

Protecting the refugees is "our cultural and national responsibility", the PM said. "Most of the Hindus who have come are Dalits and downtrodden, we cannot abandon them," he said, adding, "We should also help Sikhs, Jains and Christians who've come from Pakistan."

Pakistan was born on the basis of religion, Modi said, while accusing the neighbour of persecuting its religious minorities. "Whether it is Hindu, Sikh, Christian or Jain, atrocities against them have increased in Pakistan. Thousands of such people had to flee and come to India seeking refuge," he said.

Article 370

The abrogation of Article 370 in Jammu & Kashmir signalled the change in India's policy against terrorism, Modi said. "By abrogating Article 370, an effort has been made to remove the fear of terror and uncertainty from the life of people there. A new beginning of development has been ushered in for Jammu & Kashmir and Ladakh," he said.

The road was also cleared for the construction of a grand temple for Lord Ram at his birthplace (Ayodhya) "with peace and everybody's cooperation", Modi said.

Ayushman Bharat Health Scheme: K.R. Hospital treats 11,148 patients

Mysuru, Jan.3 (MTY&DM)- City's over a century old K.R. Hospital has treated 11,148 patients under the scheme in 2019. Jayadeva Hospital, Bengaluru, tops the list, while Kidwai Memorial Institute of Oncology at Bengaluru comes third.

K.R. Hospital has been put at second in the list after taking into consideration all the parameters required for ranking. The second rank in the implementation of Ayushman Bharat-Arogya Karnataka Health Scheme has added one more feather to the cap of this Government Hospital, which is popularly known as Doddaspatre.

ಆರೋಗ್ಯ ಕರ್ನಾಟಕ

Dr. C.P. Nanjaraj, Dean and Director, MMC&RI, to which the K.R. Hospital is attached, said that the Ayushman Bharat - Arogya Karnataka Health Scheme came into effect in Karnataka in August 2018 and thousands of patients visiting the Hospital have been benefited since then.

Pointing out that 11,148 patients were treated under the scheme in 2019 and 1,584 in 2018, he said that improvised medical facilities and quality health services have played a key role in the hospital getting the second rank in State, he said and added that the hospital will make continuous efforts to ensure quality treatment to every patient visiting the hospital.

Mandya Unitary University Special Officer sacked on corruption charges

Mandya, Jan.3- Mandya Unitary University Special Officer Dr. M.S. Mahadeva Nayak has been sacked on charges of misuse of power, violation of norms and corruption in appointments to the University.

The Department of Higher Education, in an order issued on Dec. 24, 2019, removed Mahadeva Nayak from his post as the Special Officer. Following Nayak's sacking, confusion prevailed in handing over the charge, following which another order was issued on Jan.2, posting the Principal of Government College (Autonomous) as the In-charge Special Officer. The order also transferred Mahadeva Nayak, asking him to report at the Central College in Bengaluru and directed the Vice-Chancellor of Bangalore University to submit a report to the Government if Nayak fails to report to the College on Jan.3.

Following complaints from Mandya MLA M. Srinivas and MLC Marithibbegowda accusing Mahadeva Nayak of corruption and illegal appointments, the Department had constituted an Enquiry Committee headed by former Mangalore University Vice-Chancellor Prof. K.M. Kaverappa. Now, based on the Committee's report, the Department has sacked Nayak from the post of Special Officer.

The Committee had found that Mahadeva Nayak had misused his office for illegally appointing Kannada Associate Professor Dr. B. Shivanna as Acting Registrar (Administration) and Sociology Assistant Professor Dr. K. Yoganarasimhachari as Acting Registrar (Evaluation) of the University.

Meanwhile, it is learnt that the Department has also instructed the Directorate of Collegiate Education to file an FIR against Mahadeva Nayak and the Registrars on charges of indulging in corruption through illegal appointments to various posts of Mandya Unitary University.

Over a cup of evening Tea

By Dr. K. Javeed Nayeem, MD

Public outcry over Public Exam !

The year was 1965 and I was a student of the seventh standard at St. Mary's English Middle School. The academic year started with everyone I met cautioning me that I was now laden with the responsibility of facing a public examination. My parents, relatives, teachers and even Khader, the dark and lanky boy whose job it was to escort me to school and back every passing day and who had himself never seen the inside of a classroom, were among those who tried very hard to put the fear of this important turning point into me.

They would endlessly tell me about how the examination would be conducted in a different school and how question papers for it would be set, not by teachers from my own school but by a group of external experts. And, they would also tell me about how the correction of my answer papers would be done 'mercilessly' by another group of outsiders.

But although as a little boy who should have been fearful of all such prophecies, I remained quite unperturbed about how all that would make any difference to me. The year went by quickly and a month before the examination, we were issued our hall tickets and the number on my hall ticket, which my mother has still preserved, was 4512.

The fateful day of the examination came and we were led in an orderly group by our Head Mistress, Miss Philomena Coutinho from our school to the St. Philomena's Church nearby for a special prayer for our success. The prayer was conducted by none other than Reverend Mathias Fernandes, the Bishop himself. And, since the most fervent of Christian prayers necessarily have to be on bended knees, we were made to kneel in the church. And, as I still remember, kneeling on the hard marble floor of the church all through the inordinately long prayer service was the most painful part of the seventh standard public examination for me!

Coming back to the present, my morning newspaper today says that parents of children all over the State who are studying in the seventh standard are anxious and upset that there is the likelihood of a public examination being imposed on their wards. Their fear is based on the possibility that if this does happen their children will be in the imminent danger of being detained if they do not perform well enough to secure passing marks. After all, that seems to be the only object of conducting a public examination bang in the middle of their schooling process in a system that hitherto had no real filter to separate the grain from the chaff till they arrived at the tenth standard chopping block.

Yes, unlike in the days of yore when under-performing children would fail and be detained in every class, today's education system is unusually kind to them while perhaps being unkind to the quality of knowledge they gain from their education process. I say this because when I talk to schoolchildren when they come to see me as patients about what they are studying, which I invariably do, I find that a good many of them are grossly misinformed if not completely ignorant. In case you are inclined to think that this is only in the case of those studying in rural and the not-so-elite schools you are sadly mistaken.

I have had long chats with students from some of the best schools in our city and have been appalled at what they have picked up as knowledge. They are only able to rattle off long passages from memory without being able to discuss what they mean. They do not possess any reasoning skills and are unable to explain why natural phenomena like the seasons and the monsoon happen as they do.

I have found that the culprit here is the dictation of notes in their classes just to complete the portions without any explanation which goes by the name of teaching today. This dictation of notes is bad enough if it is done by their teachers but when it is entrusted to class monitors it becomes an utter sacrilege!

Many teachers after the examinations are over collect the notes written by the students with the best and most legible handwriting and entrust them into the custody of the current year's monitors for dictation. The annual march of this storehouse of knowledge from hand to hand and book to book effects a transition that changes and completely alters it meaning.

Here is a gem which I picked up from the book of a ninth standard schoolboy recently. His notebook says: "The friendly bacteria in our intestine are very useful because they digest the food and prepare vitamin B complex tablets which help in giving us strong muscles."

While the statement is largely true, the conversion of the vitamins into their commercially available 'tablet' form must certainly be the handiwork of a slightly more intelligent 'dictator'! Now, such statements which start off as sense metamorphose into complete nonsense as they pass on from student to student. But because we never had a system of examination in place over the past three decades where an external agency would assess what was being taught in our schools and held both the teachers and the taught accountable, it was very convenient.

Students both good and bad would simply move up the ladder of what was called schooling without being assessed which they and their parents too enjoyed because it did not entail any loss of term. But now that the fear of being detained at the seventh standard level seems to be looming large they have naturally become a little jittery. But I am of the opinion that allowing students to just drift along in their schooling process without any checks that help them to understand where they stand and improve their performance just seems meaningless.

What is the point in letting them sail along only to get stuck at the tenth standard level with their capabilities irreparably hamstrung and handicapped? This is exactly what is happening now and bringing back the public examination at the seventh standard level is perhaps the correction measure which our education planners seem to have woken up to after their long slumber.

PM opens Indian Science Congress in Bengaluru

"The world is coming to innovate here. Science and Technology is being used for governance in the country, like never before. Globally we aim to develop India into a 100 billion bio-manufacturing hub by 2024."

Use electronic waste

He said that along with plastic waste, we also need new technology, new solutions to remove and reuse metal from electronic waste. "There is a need for revolution in technologies assisting agricultural practices. Can we find farmer-centric solutions to the problem of stalk burning for instance? Can we also redesign our brick kilns for reduced emissions and greater energy efficiency," he asked.

Health is wealth

Continuing, the PM said, "Another important point I wish to make is the significance of "Make in India" in medical devices to bring the fruits of advances in diagnostics to our people. Mahatma Gandhi once said, it is health that is the real wealth and not pieces of gold and silver."

"Our successes in space exploration should now be mirrored in the new frontier of the deep sea. Through "Make in India" in medical devices we should bring the fruits of advances in diagnostics to our people. We need to explore, map and responsibly harness the vast oceanic resources of water, energy, food and minerals. We know from science that the potential energy, the silent form of energy, can move mountains by its conversion to the kinetic energy of motion. Can we build a Science in Motion," he added.

Praises Chandrayaan 2

Digital technology, e-commerce, internet banking and mobile banking services are assisting rural population significantly. Today, farmers are getting the required information about weather and forecast at their fingertips through many e-governance facilities, he revealed.

"The last time I had come to Bengaluru, the eyes of the nation was set on Chandrayaan 2. That time, the manner in which our nation celebrated science, our space programme and the strength of our scientists will always be part of my memory," he added.

Govt. staff sports meet begins

Mysuru, Jan.3 (MTY&DM)- District Minister V. Somanna inaugurated the 2-day District-level sports meet of State Government employees at Chamundi Vihar Stadium in Nazarbad here this morning.

Speaking on the occasion, Somanna said that the sports meet will help the employees to be mentally and physically fit.

Regretting that he cannot spend much time at the sports meet as he has to chair a KDP meeting, Somanna assured that he will be around the next time for a much longer period.

Declaring that he was willing to sponsor a vegetarian dinner to all the participants at the next meet, the Minister assured that he too will be a participant then in some games. Calling for organising Taluk- level sports meet at regular intervals, he said that the employees can keep away from common ailments such as BP and Sugar by taking to physical exercises and sports.

Asking the employees not to make people run from pillar to post when they approach Government offices, he said that it was important for the employees to earn praise from the citizens for timely and appropriate discharge of duties.

Somanna received the guard of honour from the participants who took out a march-past. MP Pratap Simha, MLC R. Dharmasena, Deputy Commissioner Abhiram G. Sankar, Additional Chief Secretary to Department of Youth Empowerment and Sports G. Kalpana, Assistant Director K. Suresh, ZP CEO K. Jyothi, ZP President Parimala Shyam and other officials were present.

Dasara sports cash prize payment: Dist. Minister sets Jan. 6 deadline

Ahead of the inauguration of the sports meet, a visibly irked District Minister Somanna took Department of Youth Empowerment and Sports Assistant Director K. Suresh to task on the dais itself for the prolonged delay in the distribution of cash prizes to winners of Dasara sports meet. Maintaining that the Government had released Rs.7 crore for the purpose a couple of months ago, Somanna questioned Suresh where had all the money gone.

Questioning Suresh on the undue delay in the distribution of cash prizes, even after nearly three months of Dasara, Somanna said that the delay had caused disappointment among the winners. Asking Suresh to take the matter seriously, the Minister warned him of stern action if there was any further delay in the distribution of cash prizes. Even as Somanna was taking the official to task, Karnataka State Government Employees Association District President H.K.Ramu intervened to say that the delay was due to some confusion over RTGS mode of payment and that the issue will be sorted out soon.

But the Minister who seemed not too convinced by the explanations, asked the officials of the Department of Youth Empowerment and Sports to ensure that the prize money is distributed to all wining Dasara sportspersons by Monday evening (Jan.6). He also directed to make payment in full to the caterers and all others who provided hospitality services for Dasara Sports meet.

It may be mentioned here that SOM had carried a news report on Dec.11, 2019 regarding the delay in the distribution of cash prizes.

Corporators, MCC top brass squabble over Rs. 50 lakh Mayoral grant

Miffed Councillors stage a walk out leaving Mayor, officials red-faced

Mysuru, Jan. 3 (SBD&BCT)- An appraisal meeting to elicit opinions on Swachh Survekshan 2020 held at the Nalwadi Krishnaraja Auditorium of Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) last evening ended in a chaos and brought to fore the difference of opinion among Mayor, Corporators and the MCC Commissioner. The Corporators were upset as the Mayoral grant of Rs. 50 lakh per ward was not released.

The Survekshan is scheduled to begin across India on Jan. 4 and Mysuru is hoping to regain the Cleanest City tag which it had subsequently lost after winning it consecutively twice in 2015 and 2016.

Rather than discussing the ways and means to regain the Cleanest City recognition, Corporators and authorities squabbled over release of funds and non-availability of money to take up works. As the arguments reached a high-point, Corporators staged a walk out. No decision was, however, taken on maintaining cleanliness.

The Mayoral grant of Rs. 50 lakh per ward was announced during the Budget last year but was yet to be released owing to fund shortage. The Corporators wanted Mayor Pushpalatha Jagannath and Commissioner Gurudatta Hegde to take steps to immediately release funds.

As the meeting was called to discuss the Swachh Survekshan 2020, the Commissioner asked the Corporators not to deviate from the topic and focus on the objectives of the meeting to secure higher rankings in the clean city rankings. But the Corporators insisted on discussing the finances of the MCC and wanted to know when the Commissioner would release the Mayoral grants. They threatened that they will not co-operate in the forthcoming Swachh Survekshan exercise.

Seeking answers from the Mayor and the Commissioner, the Corporators wanted to know if the MCC had gone bankrupt. Responding at times to the outbursts of the Corporators, Commissioner Gurudatta Hegde said that forget Rs. 50 lakh grants, there was no money in the MCC to give salary to Pourakarmikas.

This irked the Corporators who alleged that the Commissioner had scant regards for the decisions passed by the Council. They said that despite the Council approving the Rs. 50 lakh per ward proposal in the Budget, the Commissioner has not implemented it.

Former Mayor Ayub Khan questioning the officials as to why the MCC was competing in the survey and criticised them for making cleanliness a monthly exercise rather than ensuring that the city was kept clean on all 365 days of the year. He said that the door-to-door collection of waste was not being implemented in at least 50 per cent of the 65 wards.

This was supported by a few other members including B.V. Manjunath, Shivakumar and S.B.M. Manju who said that their demand for mechanised tippers and autos had not been fulfilled yet.

Meanwhile, Commissioner Gurudatta Hegde said that this was not the forum to discuss the fund issue and wanted the members to concentrate on the subject of Swachh Survekshan. But this angered Corporators and they refuse to relent and wanted a commitment from the Commissioner on the release of the Mayoral grant.

When the Commissioner said that the MCC was cash-strapped and he could not make allocation of Rs. 35 crore at this point of time. Some Corporators urged the Commissioner to at least release Rs. 25 lakh of the grants immediately. As the demand evoked no response, Corporators staged a walked out, leaving the Mayor and officials red-faced.

Mayor, Commissioner spar over funds

After the Corporators staged a walk out, Mayor Pushpalatha Jagannath and MCC Commissioner Gurudatta Hegde got embroiled in a war of words. Upset by the walk out, the Mayor openly lashed out at the Commissioner for being rigid on the issue of funds.

This happened in front of the media persons who had not left the venue. As the Mayor spoke to the Commissioner, he got up from his chair and walked towards his chamber. The Mayor took objection to it and said that such an attitude was not correct.

The Commissioner shot back saying that the Mayor should speak to him with respect. Though the situation threatened to snowball into an ugly spat, Commissioner Hegde, in a controlled manner, said he would rather discuss the issue with the Mayor in the chamber and not in the open Council Hall. The mayor agreed to this.

Speaking to reporters later, Mayor Pushpalatha Jagannath said that the Corporators were seeking what was announced and approved in the Budget and they were seeking funds for public works and not for their personal use. "Corporators are answerable to the people in their respective wards and as there are a lot of pending works, the Corporators are upset that their rightful funds have been denied. As a Mayor, I am empowered to sanction Rs. 1 crore per ward. But the Commissioner keeps telling us there is shortage of funds. Actually, we have to manage with the available funds," she added.

Win Rs. 10,000 at Plog-a-thon on Jan.5 at 6.30 am

Mysuru, Jan. 3 (BCT)- Those who are concerned about the issue of waste dumping in city now have an option. It is a one-of-a-kind opportunity for Mysureans to turn their early morning jogs into a social cause.

Plogging or Plogathon or Plog-a-thon is emerging as a new trend, promotes picking up the litter while jogging, which in turn makes the environment clean. Therefore, the aim is to keep both the jogger as well as the environment in which he/ she lives clean.

Plog-a-thon is a Swedish fitness trend that in 2016, inspired thousands around the world to mix their morning run with cleaning of streets and gardens in their neighbourhoods. Last October, a bare-footed Prime Minister Narendra Modi was seen picking up plastic litter, water bottles and other waste from Mamallapuram Beach in Tamil Nadu during his morning walk.

A Plog-a-thon will be organised in city on Jan. 5 at 6.30 am and is titled "Maha Mysuru Plogathon" where participants, wearing tracksuits and running shoes will step out early from Kote Anjaneyaswamy Temple to combine exercise and trash-picking.

The event is being spearheaded by Mysuru City Corporation (MCC) in association with many government and private agencies. The event will have MCC's Brand Ambassadors for Swachh Survekshan educationist and stand-up comedian Prof. M. Krishnegowda and former international cricketer Javagal Srinath as guests. After assembling in front of Kote Anjaneyaswamy Temple, participants will be given a 3.5 kilometre route map and the Plog-a-thon will end at the starting point. Ploggers will walk and collect trash on the route and collect them in a cloth bag given to them by the organisers.

The collected waste will be weighed in the end and a grand prize of Rs. 10,000 awaits the winner. There will be over 20 consolation prizes. T-shirts will be given to all the participants. Registration is free and interested may contact Mob- 88847-50057.

WORD OF THE DAY

Acquiesce

Pronunciation: ak-wee-ESS.
Meaning: To accept, comply, or submit tacitly or passively —often used with in or to.
Origin: Acquiesce means essentially "to comply quietly," so it should not surprise you to learn that it is ultimately derived from the Latin verb quiēscere, meaning "to be quiet." It arrived in English in the early 1600s, via the French acquiescer, with the senses "to agree or comply" and "to rest satisfied" (this latter sense is now obsolete). An early example of the word acquiesce in the sense of "to agree or comply" can be found in the writings of the English philosopher Thomas Hobbes who, in his 1651 masterpiece, Leviathan, argued that people must subject themselves completely to a sovereign and should obey the teachings of the church. Encouraging his readers to adopt his position he wrote, "Our Beleefe ... is in the Church; whose word we take, and acquiesce therein."
Example: Eventually, the professor acquiesced to the students' request to have the seminar's final class be a potluck.

THE ODD WORD

Abb

Yarn used for warp.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

Actions speak louder than words

Meaning: Actions speak louder than words is a phrase that means a person's actions are more impactful than just their words alone. Put another way — instead of just talking about doing something, it's more meaningful if a person actually does something.
Origin: It's earliest known appearance (with the exact wording it has today) is in a work called Melancholy State of Province, 1736: "Actions speak louder than words, and are more to be regarded." However, the idea of this phrase goes back even further. For example, Michel de Montaigne, who lived during the 1500s, expressed the following in one of the essays he wrote:
"Saying is a different thing from doing."
Indeed, Michel, indeed. Saying things is easy, or as another phrase puts it, talk is cheap. But it's our actions that help to give our words meaning.
Anyways, to summarize: The modern form of this phrase is a little over 280 years old. However, the idea behind the phrase—that actions are more significant than words—is much more ancient.
Example: Mike's house was always a mess. Whenever his friends went over to visit, someone would trip and fall because of the clutter. His friends became fed up with how untidy everything was, so they told him: "Mike, you keep telling us that your house will be cleaner the next time we drop by, but it never is. Remember, actions speak louder than words."

QUOTE BOX

Action speaks louder than words but not nearly as often. — Mark Twain
